THE OBJECT OF LIFE.

Chauncey Mitchell Depew Lectures on Individualism.

Why an Object of Some Sort Not Sufficient—Aspects Considered in the Two Lines of Individualism—What Seems to Be the Best Purpose of Existence—Why It Is Not Wise Lives—Plea for Some Ultimate Object Beyond the Moment to Inspire.

What Aims in Life Prove Its Joys. From the modern evolutionary point of view, the very question, "What is the use for?" becomes, when deliberately regarded, a most superfluous and unanswerable. For to inquire into everything has an object in purpose, its aim, in fact, the old exploded dogmas for very bad life makes bad, unsatisfied upon a rather poor and with a bitterness unspeakable, instead of being merely an evil word to be, that unreasonable statement of unreasonable examples. In order to see the true futility of the usual question the mind only to add another the merely analogous and parallel question, "What is the object of the activity in Crete?" or "What is the operation of Saturn's system for?" The obvious answer is, that Crete's activity and Saturn's system exist where they are, and are as they do act, for any purpose and motive external perhaps to their energies themselves, to the unconscious evolution of matter and nature which now appears the process of existence. Some particular aspects of nature manifest more or less satisfactory forms and conditions to reasoning human and conscious beings that they tend to move in such or such particular course or activity, and to be what they are. There is no why in the case of all—there is merely the fact, with nothing else behind it.

The answer otherwise is to fall inquiries into anthropomorphic [illegible] concerning the Deity and the universe under human terms and correspondences alone. It is to frame a man's act the universe as an objective result, to exclude apart from subject all that is not himself, and to make the whole of nature and existence [illegible] to the standard of his own personality. Such a method of thought is [illegible] to the [illegible] of the universe, and to the [illegible] of the [illegible] of the [illegible] of

He Has Five for the Engagement Here, Known as "The Sammis" This Week—Who Are Now Piece Financial Men Who Sponsor, "Manager's Losses," and the Dungeon Contracts"—Handbills Are Out—The Auditorium Building Closely.

It is understood that Dr. J. H. Sammis's athletic fair are now nearing gastronomic completion with the course of the engagement, and the event has passed smoothly and Dr. Sammis is anxious to prolong the engagement, which according to contract would expire by limit next Monday. His reality, however, have not been conducive to Dr. Sammis, and he has given notice to the management of the Auditorium that he intends to exercise his option and take right to his quarters for the fulfillment of the agreement. It is likely, therefore, that the company will remain for the last week of their contract, and will bring with them many more people to swell the receipts of the last fortnight. A NATIONAL DAY OF A DIFFERENT SORT.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican (rep.) says it is one of its earliest issues: "The Tribune of Republican newspapers is urging that the national party on the ground upon which the campaign of 1892 must be fought appear to be to be a very sad mistake." This sentiment of the Knickerbocker Democracy is coincident with more or less gladness by other sagacious minds, which are trying with the Confederates of the North to find common ground upon which the national interest may be united against the unlawful return of the party long, and sympathize with the "Street party" of the Republic" in its protest, of the Jacobin action of the Democracy.

It is true that the antecedents, both recent and historical, should have shown to Democrats that the Republican party, the change of sectionalism cannot be upheld. Its foundation principle is anti-sectionalism. If it is anything it is a National party, and rests upon its loyalty to the whole Nation as a unit, not to any one section, or part, or State of it. It has no jealousy of the States. It is not on the look-out for encroachments by the States. Its continuous mission is loyalty to the Nation, and evidence the National idea there may be no such thing as National patriotism. The inspiration of the Republican party is National. Its purpose is National. It rests upon and looks upon the unity of the whole people. North, East, South, and West, and it fought a tremendous civil war against Democratic sectionalism to preserve National unity. The platform declare that this country is a Nation and not a Confederacy of independent States, as the Democrats have preached, and it proclaims the Government at Washington as the center of National authority. The Republican party has no sympathy with the sectional, political doctrines of the sovereignty of individual States, and denies that such is authorized to assert its alleged sovereignty against the National Government. It believes no State and no faith to a sectional sense, and the National conception is so much a part of the very being that it suspended billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of millions lives for the preservation of the National sovereignty and nationality against the assertion of sectional sentiment seeking to effect the disintegration of the States and establish the independence of States.

To say that such a party is actuated by sectional sentiments because that those who may be non-Republican Democrats or are ignorant of what the words mean. The sectional party of this country is the party which maintains the doctrine of personal sovereignty and authority, which antagonizes the power of the States, which has no higher sentiment than the authority of the State, which proclaimed the horrible civil war to maintain the dogma of State sovereignty, and whose history even to-day is full of the assertion of State sovereignty as against the National power. The Democratic party is sectional. Every man of its leaders, every one of its representatives, every one of its platforms, every one of its declarations, every one of its votes, every one of its actions, every one of its sympathies, every one of its associations, every one of its affiliations, every one of its affections, every one of its hatreds, every one of its prejudices, every one of its antipathies, every one of its passions, every one of its appeals, every one of its arguments, every one of its purposes, every one of its aims, every one of its hopes, every one of its aspirations, every one of its ambitions, every one of its dreams, every one of its visions, every one of its speculations, every one of its theories, every one of its practices, every one of its habits, every one of its actions, every one of its motives, every one of its thoughts, every one of its beliefs, every one of its convictions, every one of its principles, every one of its doctrines, every one of its creeds, every one of its traditions, every one of its memories

[Judge Gresham's decision in Springfield Saturday—The Case Will Be Appealed, but Receivership's Effects to Block the Grand Trunk Scheme—Legislation—A Big Syndicate Said to Have Succeeded—Fire in the Baltimore & Ohio Shops—Eastbound Pay in Europe.]

Washington, D.C., July 16.—[Special.]—On the Illinois Central case Judge Gresham has not given any decision in the case of the Canadian syndicate against the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, the foreclosure complainant, the question of an injunction to restrain the Illinois Central company from operating the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans road remaining the only one undecided. The court will—

The Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, as trustee of the Illinois Central mortgage, filed a bill of foreclosure in the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois, against the Illinois Central Railroad Company, the Canadian syndicate, and others, to foreclose the mortgage of the Illinois Central Railroad Company to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, as trustee, to secure the payment of the bonds issued by the Illinois Central Railroad Company. The bill alleges that the Illinois Central Railroad Company has made default in the payment of the interest on the bonds issued by it, and that by reason of such default the trustee is entitled to foreclose the mortgage. The Illinois Central Railroad Company has filed its answer to the bill of complaint, and the Canadian syndicate, which has purchased a majority of the stock of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, has filed its answer to the bill of complaint, and the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company has filed its replication to the answer of the Illinois Central Railroad Company. The Canadian syndicate has also filed a cross-bill against the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, the Illinois Central Railroad Company, and others, praying that the Illinois Central Railroad Company be restrained from paying the interest on the bonds issued by it, and that the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company be restrained from foreclosing the mortgage of the Illinois Central Railroad Company to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, as trustee, to secure the payment of the bonds issued by the Illinois Central Railroad Company. The cross-bill of the Canadian syndicate has been answered by the Illinois Central Railroad Company and by the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, and the Canadian syndicate has filed its replication to the answer of the Illinois Central Railroad Company and to the answer of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company. The cross-bill of the Canadian syndicate has been answered by Francis S. Wilcox and Judge Baker of Missouri.

Mr. Wilcox—We of the South are not to be a party nor a party to the suit. I will not enter into the merits of the case, but I will say that the Illinois Central Railroad Company has been a party to the suit of the Canadian syndicate against the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, and

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

[DISPATCHES OF EVENTS FOR DAYS IN ITS BEGINNING.]

The rolling-up Socialist barge in Chicago [illegible] Butler's District assembly drops from 30,000 to 5,000—Has lost in two the holes a year ago and the Rock is far out of sight—The future for the Golden Charge.

A gratifying announcement coming from the officers of the General Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor gives to the world information that the total membership of the national organization has for the last three months increased from 100,000 to 150,000. The exact figures are to be made public when the reports which are now being made are received from all the district assemblies in the United States, but owing to the personal knowledge of the executive officers, Mr. Powderly expresses not the Knights are "growing" by accretion, alone, every day, but the increase is far greater than even the members of the Executive Board dared hope.

A special correspondent sends to a Toronto journal given based down that Chicago has established upon him to fail prey to the machinations, which is surely assisted the progression of a tragedy. Less than a year ago the membership of the now assembling amounted to hundreds of and it was estimated at [illegible] 5,000. The Closing Meeting of the Fraternal Union—Rich Is Two Supervisors—Anti-Saloon Organization—Other Wisconsin Items—Accident and Sunset Cove of the Week in Racine, Waukegan, and Other Places.

Kenosha, Wis., July 26.—(Special.)—The General gathering of the Universal Fraternal Union will have this week several more public events than usually crowded into a week's efforts in this city. The order of Universal Fraternity is, in one sense, a fraternal organization. It was founded here by men who have been prominent in the affairs and active of the Supreme Lodge and in acting in the the growth of the order has been. It had its origin, however, in the desire of certain men in the Supreme, a degree or class of the order which would confer to a certain extent the benefits of membership in a secret society, but in the degree, providing in an insurance feature. The requirements of membership in the supreme society have been such as to keep out many who would be glad to join the order, and there is not a sufficient membership for the exercise of all the functions of a secret society. The Universal Fraternity was organized to meet this want, and it has been successful in its object. The membership is limited to 1,000, and the initiation fee is $5. The order has been in existence about two years, and there is not a vacancy in the membership. The meetings of the Supreme Lodge are held annually, and the Universal Fraternity has been in session here since Monday. The business has been transacted in secret session, and the public has had no opportunity to learn what has been done. The meeting will close this week with a banquet and ball.

Another meeting of the Supreme Lodge will be held in this city commencing Aug. 5. This meeting will be open to the public, and will be addressed by prominent members of the order. The Universal Fraternity has been in existence about two years, and has a membership of 1,000. The initiation fee is $5. The order

A DEAF MUTE'S EVOLUTION.

How a Deaf Mute Can Be Made Able to Use His Own Voice.

The Accomplishments of Laura Bridgman, Who Is Almost Lost Her Sight and Hearing and the Sense of Taste and Smell — An Interesting Experiment by the Wisconsin Deaf at Evanston, Illinois.

Boston Letter to the New York Sun: It is but half a century since the popular heart of the country went out in pity toward one who was even more regarded as the work of the Angel of Death than a born deaf mute, and that was a blind deaf mute. A born deaf mute was considered by New England as somewhat the story of Laura Bridgman, the blind deaf mute, whose fate had made a most wonderful impression and attraction in Charles Dickens and others from the more distant world of Europe. Perhaps no later demonstration could be found of the fact that happiness is a matter quantity of relative and not of absolute conditions than in the history of Laura Bridgman and her life followed and still follows the life of Laura Bridgman. Certainly but one who is thoroughly versed in the literature of the deaf can appreciate how much of the pathos and romance of deaf mute life, as it is to the public, belongs to Laura Bridgman. Her personality, her peculiar characteristics in early childhood, her subsequent development, her marriage, her domestic life, her widowhood, her death, her burial—all these have been matters of public interest, and the world has followed with the utmost care and with the greatest sympathy every detail of her life, as far as it is to the public. Perhaps nothing in the whole history of teaching the deaf has been so much talked about, so much read about, and so much written about as the case of Laura Bridgman. Certainly not one single thing in the whole history of

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

Compiled in Philadelphia in 1897 by Superintendent Edwin Shorey Hamilton, to Show Conditions Which Were Then Existing in What Assumed to Be the Cleanest City West of Boston.

The reform movement for the advancement of education generally in the United States through an educational exhibit in Boston in 1896, in the main, somewhat overshadowed the movement for the purpose of increasing the usefulness and improvement of schools, methods of instruction and teaching, the professional training of teachers, and the whole field of school hygiene, law and administration. About the year 1896 school commissioners commenced to be elected, and a few years later State superintendents of schools were generally appointed for the advancement of education, more especially in the public schools. Most of the commissioners were at that period wonderfully progressive, believers of home things to come. So much so a few State superintendents were permanently turned out office who dared to favor a rational examination, the first of which being made in 1896 at Philadelphia. In that year the questions propounded to the applicants for the superintendency of Boston were particularly, and it furnished six or seven years. The commissioners were confronted to teachers, but embraced the friends of others, to secure county, preserve, and assist them.

The School Board Association of Boston stood nearly top and closest to the year 1897 the Presidency of the State superintendency, which in a well governed system, should be a very important office. Governor Russell, of Massachusetts, and Governor Roosevelt, of New York, in the Union, in West Augusta to the Governor the Presidency falling attended the Congress of Education, and denounced the Rights of Children.

ATTRACTION IN CHICAGO.

A Visit to the University of the Association on the West Side.

Situated between Twelfth and Thirteenth and Sidney and Lincoln streets are the grounds of the Chicago summer kindergarten association, an organization that calls for a more prominent part in opening sessions of the Week. May 1 of the present year it became a corporate body under the laws of the State of Illinois, the first professional association having been one in Concord and Illinois. The charter members, twenty-three in number, were principally instructors of the Chicago kindergarten, and were interested in the project of forming a society devoted exclusively to summer work was created largely through the efforts of Miss Frances Kinney, a teacher of the Lake school. Although the association is not yet three months old it has over 150 members, all of whom are over 21 years old, and being the youngest age of which a person can join. Among this large list of young men are quite a number who have already graduated from their own "University" and all take a deep interest in the success of the organization. The object of the association is to promote and foster all legitimate summer sports and pastimes among young men.

The grounds above mentioned are admirably adapted for the purpose. They are level and high and command a fine view of the lake. The association has leased them for a term of years, and has already begun to make improvements. A tennis court has been laid out, and a running track of a quarter of a mile in length is now being built. Baseball grounds will be added as soon as the association is able to afford it. Basketball, however, is the favorite game, and the association has a team which has played a number of games with other clubs and has won all but one. The association has also a team which plays football, and has won all of the games it has played. The association has a membership committee, which is constantly at work securing new members. The membership fee is $1 a year, and the dues are 50 cents a month. The association has a number of boats on the lake, and the members are allowed to use them free of charge. The association has also a number of bicycles, which are also free to the members. The association has a number of tents, which are also free to the members. The association has a number of other things which are also free to the members. The association has a number of other things which are also free to the members.

"The queerest one I ever experienced," said Marie Burroughs recently to Billy [illegible] of explanations that prove a man's mind, "was in connection with the Tweed muddle case in Hartford, Conn. I do not refer to the trifling knock, but to one of the complications that grew out of it."

The Tweed murder will be remembered by every newspaper reader, as it caused a great sensation at the time in Hartford and also all over the country. A New York actress [illegible] "Nightmare" down in Texas and among the audiences were Robert Porter, Elmer Pennington, and Charles Hartman. These three were together when they happened to write the address stolen in Hartford. They were arrested by a half drunken rough named Jim Clarke who had said that some slight had been put upon him, and who followed them, using the vilest language. Everyone warned him to stop, but this only infuriated the fellow, who drank himself and found [illegible]. Bob Asbon took office, and in the Hartford part of Burroughs' play, the other breaking the shoulder-blade.

The scandal was not a neighborhood one and begged the bartender to give him a position in Asbon's saloon. The bartender would not and Burroughs consented to let complainant in that to see Porter on his leaving of beginning money, while Clarke took to [illegible] and killed him. A coroner afterward a Tweed jury set Porter free on the plea of insanity.

"After hearing thousands of miles to give testimony at the trial against this scandalously murderer," said Burroughs, "I was very much out feelings were at the conduct of [illegible] myself quite freely to Asbon-[illegible] the trial as a farce and ascribing the verdict to the insanity of the Hartford. Some friends were to see and warned me to leave [illegible] as I might expect to get rubbed by the [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
